

G. A. R. RESOLUTIONS EXPRESS THANKS TO ALL WASHINGTON

Particular Mention Made of General Committee, Police, and Boy Scouts.

PRAISE FOR SCHOOL CADETS

Veterans Tempted to Imitate
Capital in Giving Students
Military Training.

Amid a scene of great enthusiasm, resolutions expressing gratitude to every person in Washington who has helped to make the national encampment of the G. A. R. a success, were passed by that body today.

Particular mention was made of the work of the general committee, the Police Department, the Boy Scouts, and the High School Cadets. The resolutions were introduced by Gen. James A. Watson, of Wisconsin, and no motion that has come before the encampment this week has been more happily received.

The resolutions in full, as passed by the encampment, read as follows:

The Resolutions.

"The Forty-ninth National Encampment could not think of sounding taps without a whole-hearted vote of thanks; Thanks to God for letting us live to return to the Nation's Capital, fifty years after he had helped to tell our countrymen that the Union was saved and the Capital everlastingly out of danger, so far as internal disturbances were concerned; and thanks for the days of sunshine.

"Thanks, grateful thanks, to the general committee for its indefatigable efforts in preparing for our coming and while here.

"Thanks to the United States, that we helped to give a better foundation and a flag without a stain, for its large part in getting ready to greet us at the seat of Government, and to city officials.

"Thanks to Major Raymond W. Pullman and his staff for their superb service in our behalf. Could a police force have done better?

Boy Scouts Thanked.

"Thanks to that myriad of khaki-clad Boy Scouts, whose members, ever at our elbows courteous as young princes, ready and anxious to render us any and all service in their power, and how splendidly they rendered it! From all our hearts goes out a sincere 'God bless the Boy Scouts,' and to General Baden-Powell for introducing their organization to the world that has need of it.

"Thanks to that battalion, a sample of Washington's High School Cadets, who made model ushers at our large gatherings. Their fine military bearing, their never-failing courtesy, their all around wholesomeness, have made many of us desire to return to our homes and at once give our own boys to imitate Washington in that respect to carry military training into our high schools and to the higher grades in other schools.

To All Washington.

"When such a custom prevails in our schools, we shall have no need to worry lest our young people grow up molly-coddles, with the military spirit, without which the American republic would not have been given birth, smothered, through the efforts of 'peace at any price' societies and other mischievous organizations whose song is that of the old maid who wrote, 'I Did Not Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier' for the widespread display of 'Old Glory' that it was given to us—and a great honor and privilege it was, in the breeze during those eventful years and to hand back to our good Uncle Sam with its one dark spot forever made white.

New Examiner of Mint Takes Oath of Office

T. H. Chaffin, recently promoted from chief clerk of the New York assay office, took the oath of office as examiner of the mint in the office of Chief Clerk Wilmett, of the Treasury Department, today.

The oath was administered by Mr. Wilmett, and Mr. Chaffin began his new duties immediately.

Good-Night Corns, Good-Boy "Gets-It"

New-Plan Corn Remedy That Never Fails. The Simple, Common-Sense Way.

"Gets-It" Ends Corn Pains. It's Sure and Safe, too!"

You poor corn-limpers, with corn-wrinkles and heart-pains! Sit down tonight and put a few drops of "Gets-It," the simplest corn remedy in the world, on your corns. You can apply it in just a few seconds, without fuss or trouble. What's the use applying salves that make toes raw and sore, that make corns swell, bandages that make it miserably to walk, tape that sticks, greasy ointment, and other contraptions. Get rid of corns the easy way, quick, simple, sure, new way. "Gets-It" can't hurt—the corn loosens, and comes right off—clean off.

"Gets-It" is sold at all druggists, 30c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Washington and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by O'Donnell's Drug Stores, People's Drug Stores, F. G. A. Beck—Advt.

CIVIL WAR NURSES INSTALL OFFICERS

Members of National Body
Leave for Their Homes After Concluding Session.

Members of the National Association of Civil War Nurses are leaving for their homes today, having completed all business connected with their thirty-first encampment this morning with installation of officers.

Mrs. Alice C. Risley, of Jefferson City, Mo., was made national president, succeeding Mrs. Rebecca Lane Price, who held the position two years, and retired on account of failing health. Other officers installed were Mrs. Mary E. Squires, Sheboygan, Wis., senior vice president; Mrs. Susanna Kripps, of Philadelphia, junior vice president; Mrs. Salome M. Stewart, of Gettysburg, Pa., treasurer, this being her fourteenth successive election to that position; Mrs. Nellie M. Cochran, of Troy, N. Y., color bearer; Mrs. Matilde Morris, Cleveland, Ohio, conductor; Mrs. Emilie Alder, Clarion, Ohio, chaplain; Mrs. Rebecca L. Price, Lancaster, Pa., counselor; Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, Wakefield, Mass., guard.

Mrs. Mary O. Stevens, appointed secretary by Mrs. Risley, following her election to the presidency, was also installed, as was Mrs. Clarissa F. Dye, of Germantown, Pa., who is permanent custodian of the brochure, by virtue of appointment of the Grand Army in Boston some years ago.

Services in memoriam, held at the hotel parlors last night, closed the social gatherings of the encampment for the nurses. The reception which followed the exercises was well attended, especially by Grand Army veterans. Many of these remembered the "girls" when they were "angels of mercy" on the battlefield or in the hospitals, and the meetings were reminiscent of years ago.

The principal address was delivered by the Rev. John Brittan Clarke, of the First Presbyterian Church. Short talks were given by many of the nurses and by veterans.

MEDICAL AND SIGNAL CORPS ENTERTAIN

Exhibition drills by the Medical and Signal Corps of the United States Army attracted and pleased a large crowd of G. A. R. veterans and visitors on the White Lot yesterday afternoon.

The demonstration of the radio pack set by the signalists was highly interesting. It being the first time this compact wireless outfit has been operated in public in Washington. It is a wireless equipment with a range of forty miles, and can be set up in one minute. It consists of a forty-foot sectional mast held upright by four umbrella aerials, which catch the messages as they are sent from distant points, and an electric generator operated by four men.

Before the exhibition was started Master Electrician W. S. Kelley, of the Signal Corps, explained to the veterans and visitors how the outfit was operated. A number of messages were sent and received.

With two field ambulances and fifteen men, Capt. H. C. Pillsbury, U. S. A. Medical Corps, gave a realistic illustration of how wounded men are treated on the field of battle.

VETERANS GIVE JOLT TO ANXIOUS DOCTORS

March Twice Over Entire Line
With Their Different Organizations.

Physicians watching the veterans for evidence of overexertion received a jolt yesterday when they learned that a number of the "aged" warriors had not only marched in the parade Wednesday with one organization, but after going over the route once hurried back to the starting point and made the trip a second time with another organization.

This describes the situation in which Commodore Sherbourne Van Tassel and Lieutenant McEwan, U. S. N., retired, of the Naval Veterans' Association, found themselves. Commodore Van Tassel belongs to a New York G. A. R. post, and was in command of the naval veterans, too. Lieutenant McEwan is a member of a Philadelphia post, and likewise a naval veteran. Both of these ex-warriors marched in line with their respective G. A. R. organizations, passed in review before the President, and then returned to the starting point of the parade, joined the naval veterans who were last in the line, and marched in review again.

When these two comrades told of what they had done at Camp Emory and then returned to the starting point, other members of the naval contingent had done the same thing, and also that there were a number of the army veterans who had been members of two posts of the G. A. R. and had done the same thing.

Odd Fellows to Receive G. A. R. Veterans Tonight

A reception in honor of the veterans of the G. A. R. will be given tonight by the Odd Fellows of Washington in their hall, 419-423 Seventh street. The hall has been elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, and a program of interest to the veterans has been arranged. The entire membership of the large reception committee will be on hand to extend a cordial welcome to the veterans.

THROUGH TICKET CAN BE VALIDATED HERE

Excursionists Need Not Go to Point of Destination, Under New Ruling.

Visitors to the G. A. R. encampment, and all other Washington tourists and excursionists who bought through tickets to points beyond Washington, can have their return tickets validated in the Capital, without going to the point of destination, under an order issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Many Washington visitors purchased tickets to points beyond Washington, with stop-over privileges in the Capital, because such tickets are cheaper than the combination of rates. Heretofore it has been necessary to go to the point of destination named in the ticket, before it would be good for the return trip.

For instance, a man in a Western city intending to visit the Capital, with the possibility of going to New York, can buy a round trip summer tourist or excursion ticket to New York, with the privilege of a stop over at Washington for very little more than the straight ticket to Washington and return. It was necessary, however, to go to New York, the point of destination, before the return ticket could be validated. The Interstate Commerce Commission order permits "all carriers having on file with the commission tariffs providing for short limit summer excursion fares and round trip summer tourist fares applying to points beyond and naming stop over privileges at Washington, may, upon forwarding to the commission copies of supplements to their said tariffs and posting of notice of such change at Washington, by each of said carriers reaching that point, provide for the validation at Washington of said tickets, instead of the validating points named in said tariffs under which the said tickets were issued, if presented at the office of the carrier in Washington for such validation not later than October 15. It is expected that the carriers will file tariffs in accordance with the commission's ruling."

Submarine Police Experts Wanted

Must Know How to Dive and Wear Helmets in Search for Bodies.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—New York policemen walk the earth, and when Broadway rocks shift they venture into the subterranean; they rove the seas in their launches and patrol boats and on several occasions "Mile-a-Minute" Murphy drove an aeroplane for the department. Now the land under the water is to come under police control. Police Commissioner Arthur Woods announced that fact yesterday when he asked for volunteers for a divers' corps.

He sent out an order yesterday in which he asked for the names of men of the department who have had experience as divers—not the trick kind, but those who go down with helmets. He knows that many of the men in the force have had some kind of training for the work. He wants to select four for the work of searching for bodies and other submarine duties.

Veteran's Belongings Found Under Pillow

The loss of a watch, money, and return ticket belonging to John Baranfield, a veteran from Hornell, N. Y., reported Wednesday as a robbery, has been cleared up by Detective Howlett of the Central Office.

Howlett discovered that the veteran had left his belongings underneath his pillow in the boarding house where he had been stopping, and where they were found.

War Robs Fire Horse Supply for Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—Franklin P. Booth, director of supplies of Pittsburgh, rejected sixty horses submitted to him on an advertisement for fifty horses for the fire department, as being too light.

Dealers said that buyers for European governments have taken the best of this grade of horses. Not even one could be found to meet the department's requirements.

Striking the Decisive Blow

The riddling that I have given the Perkins prices now will make short work of this stock. You've got a privilege now that you cannot expect again—for circumstances make it necessary for Washington's highest grade Shop for Men to retire from business. The fall and winter weights are now on sale—at deeper reductions even than attended the offering of the light-weights. I can promise you the most wonderful bargains you have enjoyed.
